Goose Creek Candles buys property for expansion

EDA releases debt on Bluegrass Shavings property

By Larry Rowell
Editor

With the purchase of property on East Ky. 70 in Liberty, a local candle factory will be able to expand its business, creating more jobs.

Goose Creek Candles, owned by Chuck and Tammy Meece, negotiated a purchase agreement of $384,339 on Thursday with the Liberty-Casey County Economic Development Authority for the almost 37 acres of property now owned by Bluegrass Shavings.

Bluegrass Shavings purchased the property in 2010 from the EDA and recently closed due to the extended illness and death of co-owner Jerry Hoskins. The EDA agreed last month to take the property back from Bluegrass Shavings and give them relief from the $384,339 loan. Goose Creek Candles will assume the amount of the loan as the purchase price.

The terms of the loan is for 15 years at 0 percent interest payable in monthly installments.

However, if there is no active utilization of the property after four years from the date of signing the contract, the interest rate for the balance of the principal shall be renegotiated to reflect market rates.

EDA defined "utilization" to include construction, property improvements, and/or job creation — direct and indirect — showing that the property is being actively used for job creation and economic development to the satisfaction of the EDA Board of Directors.

EDA board member Rodney Wolford said that's what the EDA wants to see.

"We've got an asset that supposedly is worth in the neighborhood of $384,000 because that's the value we have in notes on it. Our purpose is to further economic development and we're proposing a 15 year loan at 0 percent. I'm OK with 0 percent interest as long as we're getting the jobs. I'm not OK with giving a 0 percent loan holding property for speculative purposes," Wolford said.

Mayor Steve Sweeney asked Tammy Meece if creating 20-30 new jobs was a possibility.

"Oh yes, if we do anything, that doesn't worry me to say this," she said.

The Meeces recently purchased a 12 acre piece of property that joins the Bluegrass Shavings property.

Meece said that the Bluegrass Shavings land will permit their company to expand and have the room to bring some manufacturing back to Liberty.

CCHS Class of 2014 graduates 163

By Abigail Whitehouse
Staff Writer

A ceremony of achievement and farewell was held for the Casey County High School Class of 2014 on Saturday afternoon.

Principal Josh Blevins and other CCHS staff members said goodbye to 163 graduates who will be moving on to the next phase in their lives.

Escorting the graduates were junior ushers Kelsey Arthur, Rachel Bernard, Tiffany Braymer, Jackie Buis, Tiara Cochran, Zack Garrett, Madison Lee, Jordan Lucas, Chelsey Lynn, Taylor Monday, and Karey Sellers.

Zack Scott led his classmates and attendees in an invocation, followed by Aubrey Buis, who led the Pledge of Allegiance. Stella Beard sang the National Anthem.

Superintendent Marion Sowders then recognized honored guests including Principal Blevins, Assistant Principal Kevin Reynolds, Casey County Board of Education members, and state legislators Rep. Terry Mills, D-Lebanon, and Sen. Jimmy Higdon, R-Lebanon.

Sowders commended the Class of 2014 for leaving a legacy of achievement and success. He also challenged graduates to take risks, believe in something, and to give something back.

"Don't just exist in this world," Sowders said. "Find something you love to do and work for it."

Sowders then recognized the parents and grandparents in the audience. In closing, Sowders read a poem titled, "Simply Seniors."

Following Sowders, class officer James Kuhn welcomed attendees to the event.

Kuhn told his fellow graduates that this was a ceremony to acknowledge the hard work and dedication that helped them achieve this milestone in their lives.

"Each one of us has had to overcome our own obstacles in order to receive this honor," Kuhn said. "This is a new chapter in the great novel that all of us will write."

Higdon, who was the guest speaker, reminded graduates to thank all of those who helped them along their way to success, especially teachers.

Higdon reflected upon his eighth grade graduation when his teacher told his father that his son would never amount to much.

"Thankfully some teachers took me under their wings," Higdon said, "and they encouraged me to apply myself and changed my life."

Higdon told the Class of 2014 that the world is expecting big things from them.

After his speech, Jennifer Denney directed members of the CCHS Band as they performed, "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Senior class officers, Mariah Richardson and Allison Clark brought laughter to the crowd as they reminisced about hot dog fights, Freshman Friday, and a senior prank that made the news when air was let out of school bus tires, forcing school to be delayed.

"As we walk out these doors tonight, we will go our separate ways," Clark said, "But we will always remember the memories we have made with the Class of 2014."

The CCHS Choir, led by

Jennifer Denney, then sang, "Never Far From Home."

Class officers Jordan Durham and Hannah Wahl gave a farewell speech that reflected on hope.

Durham said that this was the end of a 13-year success story for each of his fellow graduates.

Cundiff heads to the horn of Africa to serve in Peace Corps

By Abigail Whitehouse
Staff Writer

With nothing but 100 pounds of luggage, a small carry on bag and a pocket translator, Heather Cundiff is packing up and moving across the Atlantic Ocean to the horn of Africa.

On June 30, Cundiff, 27, will report to Washington D.C. to meet her fellow Peace Corps volunteers before traveling to Ethiopia.

The group of about 80 volunteers will spend three months training before they are split up and sent off to separate villages within Ethiopia.

Cundiff, a Casey County High School and Eastern Kentucky University graduate, said that volunteering is something that she has done throughout her life.

"I have participated in 10 week-long Habitat mission trips through my church, Liberty First Christian," Cundiff said, "Up and down the East Coast, from Maine to Louisiana. I owe a lot to the church for all of their love and support."

CUNDIFF

Ethiopia will be Cundiff's longest trip yet, and this time she isn't just visiting, she's moving.

The hardest part regarding her preparation is packing, she said.

"We are limited to two bags with a combined weight of 100 pounds, plus a carry-on bag," Cundiff said. "It presents a little bit of a packing challenge."

Ordinary, everyday items that are typical in the U.S. are not going to be as useful in Ethiopia, she said. Instead, Cundiff is packing things that one would typically pack for a camping trip, such as good batteries and a solar charger.

Each volunteer will contribute something different to the villages and communities in Ethiopia, from teaching English, which Cundiff will be doing, to teaching agricultural techniques and strategies as well as AIDS awareness.

The application process for the Peace Corps is very competitive and took Cundiff a week to complete.

"It's very thorough," she said. "They look for your experience in everything. I've worked at Walnut Hill Elementary as an instructional assistant with two children with special needs for a year. And right now I've been working with three kids who have autism. I've worked with kids quite a bit and my parents are educators."

Classroom sizes in Ethiopia can vary drastically depending on the villages where Peace Corps volunteers work. In some cases there may only be a handful of students in the classroom and in other cases there may be as many as 100 students.

With a new country comes

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Seating issue needs to be addressed

Saturday afternoon, we attended by grandson's graduation. My granddaughter and I sat in the stands on the left side of the gym. On the floor in front of us were about 90+ chairs with reserve signs on the back. For example, there was an Eads with eight reserved seats. When asked for parents and grandparents to stand, only about 12 people in the reserved chairs stood. None in the Eads' row.

All other parents and grandparents were sitting in the stands, even those using walkers and canes.

Ideas on prayer in government meetings

I am responding to your comments (Larry Rowell's column, May 21) regarding prayer in government meetings. The idea of prayer in our congress, or in public school events or town meetings, came directly from one of our forefathers and I give his comments here.

"In this situation of this assembly, groping, as it were, in the dark to find political truth and scarce able to distinguish it when presented to us, how has it happened sir, that we have not hitherto once thought of humbly applying to the Father of Lights to illuminate our understandings? ... I have lived, sir, a long time; and the longer I live the more convincing proofs I see of this truth, that God governs in the affairs of men. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without His aid? We have been assured sir, in the Sacred Writings, that 'except the Lord build the house,

With the help of family, they struggled up and down the stairs.

I don't know these people who are allowed to reserve seats, but I would like to know how only a select few have enough pull to receive special attention. I think it's time for our elected board members to look into this. Maybe next year respect will be given to our disabled and elderly citizens.

Congratulations to my grandson and the Class of 2014.

they labor in vain that build it.' I firmly believe this; and I also believe that without His concurring aid we shall succeed in this political building no better than the builders of Babel; we shall be divided by our little partial, local interests, our project will be confounded, and we ourselves shall become a reproach and a by-word down to further ages. And what is worse, mankind may hereafter, from this unfortunate instance, despair of establishing a government by human wisdom and leave it to chance, war and conquest.

I therefore beg leave to move: That hereafter prayers, imploring the assistance of Heaven and its blessing on our deliberations, be held in this assembly every morning before we proceed to business, and that one or more of the clergy of this city be requested to officiate in that service."

Shocked at behavior during the singing of the National Anthem

I attended the Casey County High School graduation Saturday afternoon. I was shocked at everyone's behavior during the singing of the National Anthem. I stood there with my right hand over my heart. I saw no one else in the crowded gym doing that.

Everyone was standing up but with their hands by their side; some looking all around; some doing other things. Do the folks of Casey County not know what to do? Has this never been taught? I was ashamed to say the least.

COPIED DIRECTLY FROM THE U.S. CODE: (a) Designation.— The composition consisting of the words and music known as the Star-Spangled Banner is the national anthem. (b) Conduct During Playing.— During a rendition of the national anthem— (1) when the flag is displayed —

(A) individuals in uniform should give the military salute at the first note of the anthem and maintain that position until the last note; (B) members of the Armed Forces and veterans who are present but not in uniform may render the military salute in the manner provided for individuals in uniform; and (C) all other persons present should face the flag and stand at attention with their right hand over the heart, and men not in uniform, if applicable, should remove their headdress with their right hand and hold it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart; and (2) when the flag is not displayed, all present should face toward the music and act in the same manner they would if the flag were displayed.

The greatest generation indeed

For years, I have been interested in the decade 1940-1950, where our young men and women sacrificed so much to fight the Nazi regime in Europe and the Japanese in the south Pacific.

Never have so many Americans worked in concert to defend democracy and defeat two horrendous and oppressive governments bent on world domination.

It's amazing that our men and women both on the battlefield and at home never complained about anything. They knew the job had to get done and they did it.

There are several veterans from that era alive and well in Casey County and I hope to interview them in coming weeks for a series of stories about where they were stationed during the war.

I would also like to speak with some family members who were at home during those years and have them tell their stories about what life was like with so many shortages of things like tires, meat, clothing, and other staples that we now take for granted.

These stories need to live on in our hearts and lives because it's history and we can learn lessons from what the greatest generation went through.

But not only do I relish reading and hearing the stories from those war years, I also love the cars, fashions, and other customs.

If you've ever ridden in a 1940 Chevrolet Master or a Dodge or Plymouth from that decade, those were massive cars with lots of room and big steering wheels.

Mike Stallings, a friend of mine in high school back in the early 1970s, had a 1948 Plymouth and it was a great car to take just about anywhere.

And what of the clothes everyone wore? Style and elegance.

Watching old movies from the 1940s on Turner Classic Movies shows how everyone dressed up back in the day.

Even to attend a ballgame or graduation, men wore suits and ties and the women always had on dresses and heels.

Not so in this day and age, where graduations and other public events are attended by people wearing shorts, T-shirts, and ball caps. Some men don't shave, women think stretch pants are dressy enough, and nearly everyone is looking at a smartphone.

While this attire at formal functions no longer draws more than a passing glance from anyone in attendance, a man decked out in a suit coat and tie at a ballgame would turn heads.

When I was a kid in the early 1960s, mama and daddy attended the Georgia Florida football game in Jacksonville every fall. And they were always dressed like they were going to church, with daddy wearing a suit with a crisp starched white shirt, dapper tie, and highly polished leather dress shoes. Mama had on a suit dress, high heels, and hat.

Will we ever see those days again? I sincerely doubt it, as most folks think what's acceptable to wear to go to Walmart can be worn everywhere else.

Thanks for taking this trip with me down memory lane and revisiting the good old days.

I just hope we can keep the memories alive.

Take it from me, graduates

and ahead into an unclear unknown.

I decided to listen to the logical side of my brain for once, and chose the path that had not only been paved but trampled by students before me – I began taking pre-requisite courses for the nursing program. At first, I was fine. I had convinced myself that eventually it will feel right because I will be able to find a job, pay my rent, and pay my way through life.

I took a full semester of pre-nursing courses, acing each of them. After two weeks of CNA (Certified Nursing Assistant) training, we spent two days at a nursing home in Lexington, gaining exposure to necessary experience and practicing the skills we had learned in the classroom.

At the end of the last day I went home, took a long look at myself in the mirror, and I laughed.

"Me, in scrubs. Me, a nurse," I said. Oh I had a healthy laugh, looking at the phony in front of me.

I took off those scrubs and never put them on again, because I'm a writer. And to think that I actually thought I could ever be anything other than a writer is just laughable.

This is not to say that nurses across the world are not heaven sent – THEY ARE (including my two very closest friends, who are registered nurses.) But the point that I am trying to make is that no job security and no amount of money is worth sacrificing who you are and how you want to live your life.

So to those recent graduates out there (who actually read my rambling), I leave you with my own bit of advice as you embark on your grandest adventure yet.

The pressure of the outside world is something that will never go away. For the rest of your life there are going to be people telling you who to be and how to live. But there is only one person who knows what is best for you, and that is YOU.

If you choose the easier path over the less taken, you are wasting everyone's time, especially your own. I can tell you from my own experience, the easiest path is never the right one.

In the next few years you are going to meet yourself for the first time. Take the time to find out who you are, so that when you fall apart (and you will fall apart) you will know exactly how to reassemble the pieces.

Love yourself. Be kind to yourself. Stay humble in gratitude, knowing that there is always someone somewhere fighting to survive, on far less than what you have.

Live this short, sweet life to its fullest potential, because you only get one and it goes by quicker than a spring thunderstorm.

Be brave and unafraid to walk into the unknown and know that no matter where it leads, that is where you are meant to be.

Teens to participate in scholars programs this summer

By Larry Rowell
Editor

Three Casey County teens will join top students from across the Commonwealth in scholars' programs later this summer.

Karey Sellers and Tiara Cochran, rising seniors at Casey County High School, have been selected as Governor's Scholars. Lauren Wethington, a rising junior at CCHS, has been chosen to be a Rogers Scholar.

The three were selected after undergoing a demanding process which included applications and essays.

Governor's scholars

Karey Sellers
A Roger's Scholar last year, Karey will travel to Bellarmine University in Louisville where she'll attend a program June 22-July 26 emphasizing dramatic expression.

Karey said that although she doesn't know program details just yet, she's honored to have been accepted after completing the grueling application process.

"It's a very very long application. You have to put hobbies, interests, and anything you've been involved in throughout high school including community service and how many times a month you did it," she said. "I also had to write an essay from among four different topics. I chose "a letter to a long lost friend, 10 years down the road."

The daughter of Dale and Kaye Sellers, Karey, 17, takes and teaches dance classes and is heavily involved with drama and acting.

Karey hasn't yet chosen a college but has decided on elementary education as a major.

Tiara Cochran

Tiara, the 17-year-old daughter of Troy and Melissa

Cochran, will be a Governor's Scholar at Murray State University from June 21-July 25. Her field of study will be in the health care industries. Like Karey, Tiara hasn't settled on a college but there's one thing she's looking for — a basketball program.

Tiara said that her passion in high school has been playing on the Lady Rebel basketball team and she's looking forward to breaking in a new head coach in Todd Claunch.

In addition, the rising senior is a member of the cross country team, track team, FBLA, Y Club, and Apple Festival Committee.

Roger's Scholars

Lauren Wethington
As a Roger's Scholar, Lauren will travel to Lindsey Wilson College in Columbia in July to attend classes in such subjects as engineering, healthcare, and video production.

"I hope to further my leadership skills, get a better feel for how living on a college campus is like, and ultimately develop skills that will help me my whole life," Lauren said, adding she plans to pursue a career in psychiatry, possibly at Western Kentucky University.

Also, Lauren said that wants to use this summer's experience as a stepping stone to be a Governor's Scholar next summer.

Lauren, 15, is the daughter of William and Nikki Wethington.

The Governor's Scholars Program is a summer residential program for outstanding high school students in Kentucky who are rising seniors. GSP was originated in 1983 as a result of Kentucky leaders' concern that the state's "best and brightest" were leaving the Commonwealth to pursue educational and career opportunities elsewhere without fully understanding the potential of their talents at home.

Students who are selected attend the program without charge, with the cost being divided among the Governor's Office, Kentucky State Legislature, and private businesses.

The Rogers Scholars program, initiated by The Center for Rural Development in Somerset in 1998, helps students learn about the southern and eastern Kentucky regions — as opposed to migrating elsewhere for work.

While participating in the program, students partake in a week-long event to develop skills in leadership, technology, and community service, among other avenues of exploration. Lodging, meals, and program expenses are all provided free of charge to recipients.

different paths after graduation, they are connected by their hope for the future.

"We will share that common hope that the best is yet to come, because we as a class have indeed made it," Durham said.

With guitar in hand, Brian Medellin, accompanied by Ryder McCoy, took to the stage and performed a popular nostalgic song titled, "Photograph," originally sung by Nickleback.

Staying true to graduation tradition, Josh Blevins gave the principal's speech in which he congratulated and encouraged graduates to carve out their futures with patience and diligence.

"Be patient. Be diligent. Be creative. Find your purpose. There are no more fill-in-the-blanks. You make your way. You decide," he said.

In closing, Blevins told the Class of 2014 that they had proven they have what it takes to achieve individual success.

"You've shown success.

You've passed the test. You are ready," he said.

Blevins then presented diplomas to the graduates, with some receiving certificates from Casey VoTech Principal Carmela Clark for completion of studies as well as Work KES certificates. Sowders then certified that the Class of 2014 had met all of the graduation requirements of the Casey County Board of Education, as well as the Kentucky Department of Education.

Andrew Beal offered the benediction before the Class of 2014 sent their graduation caps sailing into the air in unison, letting out rejoicing shouts of victory.

Cundiff

a new language and one that Cundiff is hoping she can quickly learn. Luckily, the Peace Corps provides quite a bit of suggested reading and material that aims to help the transition into a new culture.

Although she does not know exactly which village she will be sent to after training, volunteers typically find out within a month or two of arriving in Ethiopia.

Wherever Cundiff goes she said she will carry her handheld pocket translator, filled with short, key phrases in the Ahmeric language.

However, the likelihood is high that there will be variations or even a different language in the village where she will serve.

"Ahmeric will be the language I am trained in first," Cundiff said, "But that may not be the language they speak in my village. I may end up learning two languages."

As a Peace Corps volunteer, Cundiff has prepared her professional and personal life and made the commitment to serve abroad for a full term of 27 months. She left her home in Boston, Mass. to come back to Casey County and visit with her family for a year before leaving for Ethiopia.

"A lot of the preparation has been mental," Cundiff said.

As far as pre-trip butterflies go, Cundiff said she's a mixture of nervous and excited.

"I know it will be a challenge — a daily challenge," Cundiff said, "But I know that I can do it."

Goose Creek

Goose Creek Candles' former factory on Campbells-ville Street burned on May 18, 2013. As a result, the candle company moved back into its smaller, former facility on Bryant Ridge.

Meece said that their plans vary for the Bluegrass Shavings property, from manufacturing, to retail sales, to increasing the shipping of products, most of which are now being manufactured in California and North Carolina.

Prior to the fire, Goose

Creek employed between 50 and 70 people seasonally and Meece said the business had grown to a point where that warehouse was too small.

Still, for the Meece family, it's about growing their business, which in turn will create additional jobs in Casey County.

Out of town on business, co-owner Chuck Meece relayed a message to EDA Board members via his brother-in-law Andy Lawhorn.

"When Chuck asked me how many jobs EDA thought we might create, I told him 20 was a conservative figure. He said, 'That is very conservative, there'll be more than 20,'" Lawhorn said.

Additional terms of the loan include:

■ First payment due 45 days from date of signing.

■ Terms to be renegotiated in the event of property not being actively utilized within four years, or in the event of economic/natural disaster.

■ EDA in first mortgage position.

■ EDA has first right of refusal on sale of property.

Remembering a friend

CCHS freshmen, friends, and teachers joined together outside of the high school on Wednesday to honor the life of a 14-year-old freshman, Austin Mincey, who passed away June 4 after a motocross crash left him in critical condition. ABOVE LEFT, after a moment of silence, students released 173 balloons, which was Austin's motocross racing number. The balloons of pink, blue, red, and white represented his favorite color, the colors on his bike, and CCHS colors. ABOVE RIGHT, Chase Emerson and Drew Lee planted an Eastern Redbud tree in memory of Mincey. The tree was chosen because it blooms in the spring and will never die, Emerson said.

Students gathered in the school cafeteria to share their memories of Austin Mincey. Students wrote their fondest memory of Austin on large pink cards, which was his favorite color, according to his friends. The students planned to place the cards in a "memory box," which they will present to the Mincey family. From left are Shelby Lovins, Drew Lee, Chase Williams, Jonathan Gillock and Jake Smith.

Casey students named 2014 Rogers Explorers

Casey County students Laci Lee, Austin Harne, Tristan Elmore, Harley Byrd, and Macie Emerson have been selected by The Center for Rural Development to build their math, science, and technology skills this summer at the 2014 Rogers Explorers youth leadership program.

One hundred and fifty middle school graduates from Southern and Eastern Kentucky will converge on the campuses of five Kentucky colleges and universities for this year's Rogers Explorers program. It is the largest class ever in the history of the eight-year-old program.

"Rogers Explorers gives students a one-of-a-kind learning experience to explore different career opportunities and possible career paths in the fields of math, science, and technology," said Delaney Stephens, community liaison and youth programs coordinator for The Center. "The program also encourages creative thinking and teamwork and builds leadership skills as the region's next generation of leaders and entrepreneurs."

Lacie is the daughter of Mark and Chatty Lee. Austin is the son of Todd and Kristal Harne. Tristan is the son of Cassy and Ronnie Elmore. Harley is the son of John and LuAnn Byrd. All four students attend Casey County Middle School. Macie is the daughter of Keith and Tracie Emerson of Windsor. She attends Russell County Middle School.

Rogers Explorers is presented by The Center for Rural Development in partnership with Lindsey Wilson College, University of the Cumberlands, Eastern Kentucky University, Morehead State University, and the newest host site, Asbury University.

Students spend three days and two nights on the campuses of one of these Kentucky colleges or universities. The program is open to eighth-grade students within The Center's 45-county primary service area who have a strong interest in developing skills in leadership, technology, math, science, and community service.

Track and field team holds year-end banquet

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

Casey’s track and field team celebrated their 2014 season at the Bread of Life Café on June 3.

With a team that spans elementary to high school, every athlete was honored for his or her accomplishments. Each was presented an award listing the events in which he or she participated and their personal best mark or time.

“This is a tradition which we started last year and allows the athletes to compare their times and distances as they train to get better,” said Coach Jon Vaughn. “We had a very good year and we are especially proud of our new elementary runners as they were able to field full teams. These runners are this team’s future and they are very tough. It was so great to watch them train and have fun as a team.”

The KHSAA state meet qualifiers were presented plaques as well as the school record holders.

“For most of them, this represents year around training and sacrifice,” Vaughn said about the record holders and state qualifiers. “A lot of them are going to join us in our quest to produce a championship cross country team. The others have committed to starting with us early next season to train for next track season. This team was very young and the future looks very bright if we can all stay together and train.”

State qualifiers included: Shelby Stringer (pole vault), Lakken Miller (high jump, 1600-meter relay), Tiara Cochran (100-meter hurdles, 300-meter hurdles, 1600-meter relay), Allison Dallman (high jump), Brenna Hayes (discus, shot put), Chelsea Elmore (1600-meter relay), and Jenna Vaughn (1600-meter relay).

New school record holders include: Miller (varsity high jump: 5’2”), Hayes (JV shot put: 38’8”), Vaughn (JV 3200-meter run: 12:51.06), Chase Williams (JV 1600-meter run: 4:54.99), and Noah Brown (JV 800-meter run: 2:10.79).

Also earning a special award was freshman Noah Laman, as he returned to the team after taking a season off due to his battle with cancer.

With the track season officially over, Vaughn’s attention is now focused on the 2014 cross country season ahead. He invites all new and interested runners to join their summer training.

Text Vaughn at 859-333-3546 for more information on cross country summer training.

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT

Padgett looking to second year with UC

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

A 2013 graduate of Casey County High School, Tyler Padgett just finished his freshman year at the University of the Cumberlands.

After playing football for Casey County all through middle and high school, Padgett took his skills as an offensive lineman to the college level and played his first collegiate season last fall.

Padgett dressed both J.V. and varsity and experienced a trip to the NAIA national championship game.

The UC Patriots lost 35-23 to the Grand View Vikings and finished with a 13-1 record and as the national runner-up team.

UC is still in search of their first national title and Padgett hopes to be a part of that milestone.

RH: With one year under your belt, what have you liked most about your collegiate athletic experience?

TP: I have liked many things about my first year of college football, but what I liked the most is the tradition at The University of the Cumberlands. At The Cumberlands we want to win every single year and I love that tradition. Going to the national championship, it was an amazing experience, yet we didn’t win. I look forward to winning one in the next three years.

RH: What was the biggest adjustment you had to make coming from CCHS?

TP: The biggest adjustment was the speed of the collegiate game.

RH: As a freshman, did you play much JV? Any varsity?

TP: I started all the J.V. games but didn’t play varsity. They have already had the starting line set since the spring (of 2013) and had two seniors and a bunch of juniors on the o-line, but I got to start every JV game. We had nine games and we only lost three games by a combined nine points, so we also had a very successful JV season. Next year looks even brighter for me and the team.

RH: Have you accomplished any major personal goals or milestones while on the collegiate level?

TP: The one major goal I set for myself when I came into college was to learn the offense, and how to run every play, and I successfully accomplished that goal.

RH: Have you been a part of any special awards or accomplishments at your school?

TP: The only special award I received was Scout Team Player of the Week. Also, our team was 2013 MSC (Mid-South Conference) champions.

RH: What has been the most memorable game or specific experience so far?

TP: The most memorable game of the season was against Carroll College in the NAIA semifinals. It was like 20 degrees and wet and cold and rainy. It was a back and forth game, but we won in OT (overtime) on a fourth down sack by our All-American senior linebacker to send us to the national championship. The stands and all the players rushed the field. It’s something I will never forget.

RH: Will you continue to play next season? If so, what are you looking forward to?

TP: I plan on playing the next three years and our goal every year is to win a national championship.

RH: What are you studying currently and what are your future plans?

TP: I am studying physical education and plan on being a P.E. teacher.

SPORTS TALK

Summer sports all about fun

You know that summer is here when youth sports are taking off.

Not only did I enjoy snapping photos at this year’s youth basketball camp hosted by the Rebel and Lady Rebel basketball teams, but I also saw some top-quality tee-ball action this weekend visiting my 4-year-old nephew.

Having just had our first child eight months ago, my husband and I have yet to experience youth sports in our adult age, and let me tell you. What fun it was!

A perfect day for baseball, these kiddos were having a blast... or were they?

Sometimes you’d catch one taking a break and laying down in the outfield (by the final inning they were dropping like flies).

Gloves were quality props — not necessarily for catching fly balls and grounders, though. They made good face masks and hats or just toys to toss around. In general, baseball was not always top of mind.

You’d catch one twirl-

HARRIS

Correspondent

ing in circles or talking to himself or picking at the grass.

On the other hand, a hit and a ball on the loose could be the most exciting thing in the world. It doesn’t matter if you are playing third base and the ball is hit to right field, you were going for it. They swarmed the ball like bees on honey. Sometimes they forgot that wearing the same jersey meant you were on the same team and you did all you could to snatch the ball up first or even out of someone’s mit.

Bottom line is, I was more than entertained at Saturday’s sporting event in a way I had not anticipated. My husband and I laughed a lot.

As we grow up in sports and even watching them, they become very serious. Obviously we still participate and watch them because we find them fun, but we also take them very seriously.

And there is nothing wrong with this, but there is something to be said for not reaching this point too early in life.

I loved watching these kids playing tee-ball and not being expected to take every moment seriously; yet becoming overjoyed when their bat struck the ball and flew into the air. At some point in life, everything becomes more serious, but don’t push for that before its time — especially for your kids. Let them enjoy their youth so you can enjoy their youth too.

Summer is here and school is out.

This may mean you finally have your kids home or maybe its your last summer with kid(s) before they start school.

Either way soak up some summer fun with them. Hit the park, the pool, the road. Let them get a taste of fun at the ball park or summer sports camps, but mainly let them be kids and you soak up having them in your life.

Reading this summer

This year’s children’s program, “Fizz, Boom, Read!,” is geared to kindergarten through sixth grade and will run until June 20 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 5:30 p.m. A full meal will be provided for each child. Children may register anytime during the summer. There will be prizes and incentives for those who read the most throughout the program. The program officially started on May 30 with “Animal Tales” and continued on June 6 with Jack Strauss, the Mad Scientist Magician. Every program date will have the children experimenting with items like flubber, color symphony and soap soufflé, lava in a cup, elephant toothpaste, and a Wacky Water Night (bring towels).

The finale will be “Bing, Bang, Boom with Mr. Molecule,” on June 20.

Enjoy a Safe Summer

- Any electrical outlets within twenty feet of a pool should be equipped with a GCFI, or Ground Fault Circuit Interrupter.
- Use battery operated, rather than electrical appliances near swimming pools.
- As always, never swim during a thunderstorm.

Remember to contact Inter-County Energy for information on line clearances when installing a new swimming pool. Visit our web site at www.intercountyenergy.net for more electrical safety tips.

Maupin pleads not guilty to theft charge

By Larry Rowell
Editor

A former Casey County sheriff's clerk has pleaded not guilty to charges that she took tax funds from the sheriff's office.

Appearing in an arraignment hearing in Casey County Circuit Court on Monday before Judge Judy

D. Vance, Liberty attorney Brian Wright entered a not guilty plea on behalf of his client, Michelle Maupin.

Vance set a pretrial hearing for July 21 and a trial date of Nov. 5.

Maupin is charged with three counts of theft by unlawful taking, $500 or more but less than $10,000.

The indictment, returned on May 12, states that Maupin took $545.35 on Nov. 30, 2012, $688.61 on Dec. 3, 2012, and $544.72 on Dec. 3, 2012.

The charges stem from audit findings uncovered by investigators from State Auditor Adam Edelen's office and also from an investigation by detectives from Kentucky State Police special crimes unit in Bowling Green.

Sheriff Jerry Coffman said in April that he had fired Maupin on Feb. 14, 2013 as a result of discrepancies he discovered after Maupin confessed to Marvyn Crutcher, a deputy in the sheriff's office.
